The Centers for Continuing Education @ HCC to Host “Women on the Frontline Doing Extraordinary Things”

November 12th Event to Feature Jane Castor, Chris Field and Other Successful Women Discussing Leadership and Balancing Work and Home Life

TAMPA, FL (November 2, 2009) – The Centers for Continuing Education @ Hillsborough Community College (CCE) announced today they are hosting a seminar and panel discussion featuring women who are leading the way in business in the Tampa Bay area. “Women on the Frontline Doing Extraordinary Things” will be held on November 12th at The Corporate Training Center @ HCC in Tampa.

The open panel discussion will include successful business women Jane Castor, Tampa Police Chief, Julie Gibson, Author & Radio Host, Chris Field, Sports Anchor FOX 13, Cheryl Brown, Regional Director of HR for Metro PCS and Nancy Giles, Entrepreneur. Clara McCalla, President of WIN Professional Development & Training Solutions, will be the Event Facilitator.

The format of the seminar will be an open panel discussion. The women on the panel will tell their stories of leadership success, balancing work and life and how other women can do the same. They will also answer questions from the audience.

“CCE is very excited about hosting this great event for all women in the Tampa Bay area,” said Yolanda Levell-Williams, Executive Director of CCE. “There are so many successful women in leadership roles today that we wanted to focus on them and how they achieved their success. At the same time, women still face the tough challenge of balancing work and family life. We see this event as a great opportunity for women to share their stories and help each other.”

Women on the Frontline Doing Extraordinary Things will be held on November 12, 2009 from 9:30 am to 2:00 pm. It will be held at The Corporate Training Center @ HCC, 39 Columbia Drive, Tampa, Florida. For more information or to sign up visit www.TampaTraining.com or call 813-259-6010.
